HYPNOTISM

We have all seen those cartoons where the crazy scientists hypnotises someone with a swinging watch and their eyes become strange and they do anything the scientist tells them to do. But that's not how hypnotism really works. Doctors now use hypnotism to help people with problems, like giving up smoking.

Franz Mesmer, an Austrian scientist, first introduced the idea of hypnotism. He believed that a hypnotist had special powers that could be used to control other people. This effect was called mesmerism. Early ideas about magicians, swinging watches, and hypnotism probably came from him, because he had a very active imagination, and he saw himself as a magician.

Today, scientists see hypnotism in a different way. They think it's a natural state of deep focus and relaxation. During hypnosis, someone shuts out other things, focusing intently only on one thing. When we read a book, watch a movie, or drive a car, we're in a sort of hypnosis, because we concentrate strongly on that activity.

During hypnosis, people are usually more relaxed and more creative. It is also very easy to convince them to do something. That means, they are more open to ideas and requests, but only if they are happy with the requests. The mind avoids all other things and the person can focus completely on what the scientist is asking them to do.

Doctors use hypnosis to help people deal with pain, or if they have had an accident. Women have used it while having their babies, to help them to control the pain. People have found that it helps to stop bad habits, such as smoking, or to get a better night's sleep.

There are a lot of ideas about hypnotism which are not correct. Some people think you can get a person to do anything when they are hypnotized, but that is not true. During hypnosis, people are more willing to listen and respond to ideas, but they still have control over their actions. They won't do something that they really don't want to do, because their brain will not let them be controlled.

1. Some people

- ☐ use hypnotism with their friends and family.
- ☐ like to hypnotise themselves.
- ☐ have the wrong idea of hypnotism.
- ☐ are scared of hypnotism.

2. Hypnotism first appeared

- ☐ in Egypt.
- ☐ with someone from Austria.
- ☐ with the Chinese.
- ☐ in India.

3. Hypnotism

- ☐ is considered dangerous by scientists.
- ☐ is avoided by doctors.
- ☐ is sometimes used by religious leaders.
- ☐ is actually quite natural.

4. Difficult people

- ☐ are easier to convince with hypnotism.
- ☐ cannot be hypnotised.
- ☐ become aggressive when hypnotised.
- ☐ should avoid hypnotism.

5. What would be a good introduction to this article?

- ☐ Hypnosis can be used in many different ways but beware, it will make you do things that you don't really want to do.
- ☐ Hypnosis helps you listen and respond to ideas. It can be used in many ways to help break bad habits, to relax or to ease pain.
- ☐ Franz Mesmer was the first person to use hypnosis as a way of controlling people and making them do everything he said.
- ☐ In this text, Franz Mesmer, an Austrian scientist, explains his method for hypnotising people and the outcomes that can be achieved.

The Trojan War

The Trojan War was a famous war that was fought because prince Paris of Troy took Queen Helen, the wife of the king of Sparta in Greece, back to Troy with him, because they were in love. When the Spartan king found this out, he demanded that Queen Helen return to Greece.

So, he sent his army to fight the Trojans to get her back.

Troy was very powerful and it had a wall that went all around the city so that invaders could not attack the houses inside. If someone came up to the wall, the Trojan army used to shoot arrows at them. They felt very safe behind their wall. That's why they were not afraid when the Greek army arrived.

The Greeks had wanted to invade Troy for many years, but this was impossible because of the wall. Now, trying to get Helen back, they faced this impossible wall again, when one of the Greek generals had a brilliant idea. He realized how he could trick the Trojans to let them into the city.

Then they could fight them and get Helen back.

He told his men to build a huge horse made of wood, but empty inside. The horse was very beautiful and very heavy. Then he told some of his soldiers to hide inside, and the rest of the army pretended to give up and leave. The trojans thought they had won and took the beautiful horse into their city.

The Greeks hid quietly inside the horse.

Later that night, when everyone was sleeping, the Greek soldiers who had been hiding, came out and opened the city gates to let their army into Troy. The Greeks killed all the enemy soldiers and won the battle of Troy. The Trojan horse became famous for being a very clever trick.

Modigliani – an Italian artist

Nowadays cards and posters of pictures by Amedeo Modigliani are popular with people all the world, but the artist himself did not have an easy life. He was born in Livorno, Italy, in 1884. His father was a businessman who did not make money, and his mother ran a school.

Modigliani went to art school in Florence and Venice, before moving to Paris he painted and made sculptures. His work was influenced by art from Africa which he saw in museums. He was very poor and not very strong, and after a years he gave up making sculptures. He painted people in a gentle, thoughtful style.

Many of his most beautiful paintings Jeanne, the woman he loved. Often the people in his paintings look sad or tired. Perhaps Modigliani was painting his own feelings. Although in the end he began to a little money, he was never very successful in his lifetime.

Part 06

Home Changes

Dear Will,

I hope you are well. So, I have finally returned to Thailand after three years away in the UK. It is amazing to be back in Bangkok after long. I have really missed the place. The traffic is still pretty bad, but they improved the subway system. So, it's easier to get around.

Last night, I went out to a nightclub my friends. The music was better than it used to be. It was a great night out. My parents sold their house, so we are outside the city. It is quieter at night before, and it is only a two-minute walk to the subway.

I am staying here a month and then going to Japan for a year to work as an English Teacher. I hope you can make to Bangkok one day.

All the best,

Harry
